

Argentine TANGO with

Jennifer Olson

Jennifer began her tango career in Portland (OR) and her love of tango has since taken her all over the world: to Europe, Argentina and Uruguay, and throughout the United States and Canada.

Without a home and constantly on tour for the last two years, Jennifer is happy to again make Portland her home base. During her recent travel, she taught tango workshops at festivals in Buenos Aires, Argentina (where she lived for five months); Montevideo, Uruguay; Berlin, Germany; London, England; Edinburgh, Scotland; Toronto, Canada; Montreal, Canada; Portland, OR; Seattle, WA; Denver, CO; New York City, NY; Washington D.C.; Atlanta, GA; Boston, MA; Princeton, NJ (Princeton University); New Haven, CT (Yale University); and St. Louis, MO.

Jennifer's dance is versatile. Tango is a social dance, and she believes it is important to master not only close and open embrace, but also everything in-between. Beyond a connected and comfortable embrace, nothing is more important to Jennifer than the music. Musicality is transmitted in her teaching. She approaches every class with a strong understanding of the music and how it infuses and informs the dance.
