

TANGO

in Salt Lake City in August with Pedro "Tete" Rusconi and Silvia Ceriani

Tete and Silvia have been dancing and performing together since 1995. They are masters of the authentic "close embrace" style of tango. If you have been to Buenos Aires, it is difficult not to have encountered Tete and Silvia. They are social dancers of the highest order, acclaimed by experienced dancers throughout the world. They have toured throughout Germany, France, Switzerland, Italy, Holland, Spain, Belgium, Sweden and the United States. In their classes, they concentrate on the musical 'compasses' (rhythm, syncopation), the sensibility of the body, and the liberty of movement. Their tango vals classes are especially renowned. Tete is noted for his individual style of musicality, and interpretation of the tango from the 'Golden Age' of the 1940's and 1950's. Tete and Silvia have two institutional videos, videos, that are used by many close embrace dancers. They have also been featured in Paul Pelicoro's book, "Paul Pelicoro on Tango" and in two recent documentaries on the milongeros of Buenos Aires: Odie Fillon's "Tete and Silvia Milongeros" and Daniel Tonelli's short film on Tete.
